

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Save Money on your Fencing by Putting up the Style Made to Meet your Requirements

It's downright foolishness to buy light chicken wire to put around your bull pasture—and you know it.

But some people do it because they don't think beyond the price-ticket on the roll of fence—at least not until they've had to patch the chicken wire a dozen times or so where that bull went through.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

PRINCESS IS A "FAN"

Marie of Sweden Roots for Husband's Team.

Second Son of King and His Wife Introduced Great American Game of Baseball as a Summer Sport in the North.

Stockholm. — Prince Wilhelm of Sweden and his charming wife, Princess Marie, a daughter of Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovich, uncle of the czar, have become baseball "fans," with the intention of interesting the officers of the capital and their wives in the sport.

For many years the prince has been rated a keen football player, making his fellow countrymen realize that the spring and autumn months should be utilized with games, as well as the winter days, when skiing, snowshoeing and skating are the pastimes.

But with the advent of the last Olympic games in the capital came the great American game of baseball. Daily the prince and his wife could be seen in the midst of an interested group of nobility watching the American athletes play.

As the prince watched Thorpe and his colleagues pitching and batting the ball he would grow greatly excited, picking up the American "fan" phrases and urging on the men. The princess, too, would follow the intricacies of the game, now and then questioning her royal husband on the meaning of certain plays.

So when Prince Wilhelm started a baseball club his wife at once began to interest her friends. Every day at the practice of her husband's team, which was one of the four organized

WOMEN DODGE JURY DUTY

Sex Shown by Kansas Example to Stand on Same Plane as Men—Do Not Seek Superiority.

Toledo, O.—Advocates of equal rights for women must have felt immensely encouraged by the news that the women of equal rights Kansas were dodging jury service. It was one more proof that women stood upon the same plane in nature as men. It was additional evidence that difference of sex did not necessarily mean that that which was irksome to men was enjoyed by women.

Save those few score men who can sit for wearisome hours in a chair and never squirm and who can keep awake in a courtroom at the wage the county establishes, there is no civic duty more warranted to render men suddenly deaf, surprisingly biased in opinion and calloused in the matter of minor patriotism than receiving notice to appear for jury service. Citizens who will not dodge taxes—rareties worthy of special distinction—will yet search their souls for excuses that will keep them out of the jury box. Occupations which are ordinarily held in little esteem by the occupants thereof acquire remarkable value when it is learned that they exempt one from jury service. To get around the subpoena sometimes entails tremendous expenditure of energy and the exercise of much ingenuity. Yet the labor is held well worth while when successful.

It might have been expected that women would delight to show a superiority to men, when, as in Kansas, they have acquired the privilege of sitting on juries. But this is no part of the true equal rights movement. The serious-minded feminist do not wish to demonstrate superiority—only equality. This news from Kansas shows they have won another scrimmage for the cause.

SELF-STYLED PRINCE WEDS

Colpus, Alleged Son of King Edward, Takes Aged Widow as His Bride.

Chilcopee, Mass.—Henry Holder Colpus, who claims to be a natural son of the late King Edward of England and half-brother of King George V., was married here to Mrs. Mary A. McGill, a wealthy Chilcopee widow of seventy-one.

Colpus, describing himself as of the house of Hanover and Guelph and Saxe Coburg de Gotha-Wettin and Eliza Elsie Holden, says he is consequently entitled to be called "Prince Henry of Guelph." He is pressing his claim for recognition by his half-brother, King George V., through Crawford Elliot, a Chicago lawyer, who is now in England with the papers, which, he says, include letters from the royal family admitting his claim.

"My mother," says Colpus, "was a young widow. On June 15, 1862, she was on her way to the Ascut races. She was passing through Windsor park alone when she met the young prince. He had reached England the day before from a tour of the Holy Land. The prince fell in love with her at first sight. She did not go to the races at all. He took her away."

"My mother was a Quakeress, and she felt that it was a spiritual marriage. But the time came when he told her he could not acknowledge her as his wife because he was the Prince of Wales. She wept, and he gave her a handkerchief to wipe away her tears."

Colpus produced a handkerchief, which had a border design of four-leaf shamrocks. He said it was preserved for him by the Shaker colony at Mount Lebanon, of which he was a member.

"My mother went back to her father," he continued, "but though he was a proud old man, he told her he would support the child. I was born at Farncombe, Surrey, March 10, 1863. Dr. William Jenner Parsons, nephew of Sir William Jenner, was present at my birth. The day I was born was the day Edward married Alexandra. My mother died May 6, 1910, the day King Edward died."

Encourage Kindness in Children.

Kindness is one of the habits that is latent in every normal child. It must be encouraged, and you may be sure that the child that is kind to animals and birds will be considerate in his treatment of persons. There is always something interesting in animals. Children love anything with life, and if taught to care for birds, fish or animals there will be a certain strength of responsibility that makes for good character.

Early Parentage Best.

Of children born of parents at the age of 41, one-third die during the first year, while the rate of mortality among those born of parents between the ages of 21 and 30 is less than 8 per cent.

Sedentary Sorrows.

First Hen—What a ridiculously giddy creature that young Miss Dorking is! Second Hen—Oh, she's young yet. Wait till she has known the sorrow of sitting for three weeks on a china egg and two door knobs—she'll sober down then.

STERLING HINKSON, Lair, Ky.

Princess Marie of Sweden.

In the capital, the princess, dressed in a manner that has won her the title of the "most smartly gowned woman" of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, would be in the bleachers learning the fine points of the game.

The entire country then grew interested in baseball, since it had, as it were, received royal sanction, and soon Malmö, that quaint and churchly town, was ringing with the enthusiasm of the new sport and a team was at once formed. Upsala, too, ventured into this recently learned game, and the rivalry of the two towns became most intense.

With the sanction of the prince, a league has been formed and baseball is bound to become as popular in Sweden as it has in America. The princess delights especially in having with her at all the games the wives and daughters of the American minister and the attaches of the legation in Strandvagen. Her pretty English is becoming charmingly studded with phrases such as one hears at every game of baseball in America, and her knowledge of the game is very nearly as great as that of Prince Wilhelm.

ONCE HOUSED QUEEN'S MAIDS

Gumley Cottage, Near London, With Its Quaint Rooms, Is for Sale.

London.—A delightful and ancient cottage just outside London is for sale. This is Gumley cottage on Kew Green. Once it was the residence of Queen Charlotte's maids of honor; and one may see today in its quaint rambling rooms a medallion of Queen Anne over the drawing room chimney piece, a beautiful old carved ceiling and a powder closet where many a dame powdered her hair in the days of George III.

It is an antique little treasure house of white paneling, with a cellar that was used as a boarding place for smugglers in times long gone by.

Pennies For Rat Tails.

London.—Farmers in Kent and Sussex are suffering from a plague of rats, for tails of which they pay a penny each. They purpose to turn out badgers to wage war upon this and other species of vermin. In Buckinghamshire and Bedfordshire, where badgers are plentiful, members of the Kent and Sussex badger clubs are capturing the animals for removal to the southern counties.

CANNIBALS LIVED IN BOSTON

Professor Harvey W. Shimer Finds Actual First Settlers Relished Human Beings.

Boston.—That New England's prehistoric man—who antedates the oldest inhabitants from 3,000 to 10,000 years, was a cannibal and of the orang-outang type, is the contention of Harvey W. Shimer, assistant professor of paleontology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Professor Shimer has unearthed strange utensils and remains in a shell mound at Ipswich which show that the earliest type there dwelt from 3,000 to 5,000, and perhaps 10,000 years ago, less than 40 miles from the heart of Boston.

At Ipswich also pieces of broken bones of a human victim that, Professor Shimer declares, was undoubtedly being sacrificed to gratify a cannibal appetite, were found.

Professor Shimer said: "There were a number of bones broken into short pieces—human bones—which indicate that the earliest type of man was a cannibal."

"At another kitchen-midden, which I explored at Gardner's Island, off the Long Island shore, I found that the remains of a great auk, a bird now extinct, and pottery utensils made in the most primitive fashion, wholly unlike the European prehistoric pottery, indicating that these early people lived here before the invasion of the European types."

CHURCH FOLK JOIN SCRAP

Japanese Butler, With Jiu-Jitsu, Holds Policemen and Presbyterians at Bay.

New York.—The congregation of the Fourth Presbyterian church, on Nineteenth street, was summoned to aid in an unusual fight at the residence of Lorenzo Martinez Picabia, a broker, recently.

Picabia and his wife had been thrown bodily from their home by Tamo Ohara, their Japanese butler, who had been discharged earlier in the day. With four other fellow Japanese the butler had taken possession of the house just as the Presbyterians were leaving the service at the church. The members of the congregation who responded to the calls for help found the Japanese too much for them.

Three policemen, one an experienced wrestler, were also all thrown out by the discharged butler, who employed jiu-jitsu tricks, before he was arrested. His four confederates escaped. Furniture and bric-a-brac in the house had been broken up in the fight which the Picabias had with their servant.

NOW, WHAT IS SAUSAGE?

Department of Agriculture Will Answer That Question—Maybe—for the Packers.

Washington.—The department of agriculture expects to answer, at a hearing to be given meat packers here the question "What is sausage?" These packers protested against an order of the department which was to have become effective soon, which would have limited the amount of cereal which sausage may contain to 2 per cent, and the amount of water to 3 per cent.

Mother Rescues Own Boy.

Worcester, Mass.—Mrs. Karl Hillson rescued from drowning her eight-year-old son, Roy, who had broken through a spring hole in the ice in a pond near his home. She had been in town shopping and returned past the pond.
